Dear

Darkness can be so debilitating. You have, no doubt, walked into furniture, stubbed your toe or hit the door looking for the light switch. It takes the least flicker of light to dispel the darkness and provide a sense of stability. The more light, the more you can see your way. And with light comes hope. It's hard to be hopeful when you can't see where you're going. Light and hope working together make the journey possible.

As we approach the holidays, we are reminded that the wisemen followed a small but brilliant light to find their way to a small but brilliant light who would grow to illuminate our lives forever. In His coming, Jesus brought light and hope for all mankind. His light has given us undaunting hope because we can now see, and keep our eyes fixed on, our ultimate destiny.

The year 2020 will be memorable for some dark days. But at [REDACTED] we have not been without hope. We kept the doors open, we kept our students engaged and we continued to fill them with the light that comes from Jesus. Our mandate to be unwavering in developing young men and women to be light bearers in a dark world is worth all our energy.

Will you join us in this grand task of growing the light of Jesus into this generation? The transformational development of students into leaders prepared to serve God in the Church, the workplace, and the world calls for a shared commitment. We're so proud of our students and their resolve to change the world around them. As you plan your year-end giving, please consider helping us keep the light growing in the lives entrusted to us and keep the lights on at our campus. Both are necessary to get the job done.

Our very best wishes as you celebrate the birth of Jesus, the light of the world.

President
